Robert Barranger's design and construction expertise spans more than 35 years in all phases of building design and construction. A licensed Architect, he has successfully planned and designed a variety of interior design project types including laboratories, processing plants, food co-packing buildings and award-winning corporate office facilities. He is a resident of Tinton Falls Township in Monmouth County, New Jersey.

Mr. Barranger co-founded Cornerstone Architects in 1987 and serves as a Partner in Charge of Commercial Design. Mr. Barranger assumes partner level overall responsibility for the firm's commercial design projects. In addition, he is responsible for overall quality assurance of design and construction documents.

Robert is a Certified Interior Designer in New Jersey having demonstrated the necessary technical knowledge and experience for certification. Mr. Barranger is also a Registered Architect and a licensed Professional Planner in NJ.

He is an active member of the American Institute of Architects at the national, state and local levels. A 12 year former Chairperson of AIA New Jersey's Public Awareness Committee, Mr. Barranger continues to serve as a member on the committee. He volunteers his time and expertise in the continued promotion of the value of New Jersey Architects to the public.

In 2015, Robert was honored with the Architect of the Year Award by the New Jersey Society of Architects. This award is bestowed upon a registered architect member in good standing recognized as having made a major accomplishment in the field of architecture and has distinguished himself both professionally and personally. The award basis is to be professional, technical and personal accomplishments.
